Vancouver, B.C.—(Feb. 27, 2006) — NAI Goddard & Smith, a premier provider of commercial real estate services in B.C. and Alberta announces that the company’s brokerage and property management units have changed their name to NAI Commercial. The name change marks the establishment of a ten office national brand servicing Canada from Coast to Coast. This partnership is part of NAI Global, a corporate real estate and investment services firm with more than 3500 real estate professionals in 300 markets and 40 countries worldwide.

As part of the world’s only managed network of commercial real estate firms, NAI Commercial provides both deep local knowledge and global breadth and access. The collaborative structure of NAI Global’s network allows its members to develop and facilitate effective real estate solutions and improve client services.

“Commercial real estate has changed significantly since we first opened our doors in 1982,” said Greg McPhie, Managing Partner, B.C. “The business was much more localized with local businesses buying local properties. Today, globalization and technology has changed this dynamic. With our national service platform together with NAI’s global reach, we can maximize the opportunities for our clients.”

Over the last 20 years, technology, global economics and revolutionized investing strategies have changed the way commercial real estate is used, bought, sold and perceived. By aligning ourselves with partners, nationally and globally, we can offer the advantages of a firm with deep roots in Western Canada coupled with the resources and infrastructure of a global enterprise.

Another benefit includes the ability to leverage NAI Global’s proprietary, award-winning technology platform, REALTrac™ Online. This transaction management system supports our professionals as they manage assignments in diverse markets and provide clients with custom, comprehensive reports on projects, transactions, leases and more, all of which is handled in real time.

Effective March 1, 2006, NAI Commercial has Canadian offices in Vancouver, Edmonton, Calgary, Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa, Kitchener/Waterloo, Langley, New Westminster and Victoria.
